Government Technology:
Here for What's Next

Pandemic-aware coverage: The once-novel coronavirus, also commonly known as COVID-19, changed everything in 2020. Government Technology provided continuing comprehensive coverage of the pandemic and how government adapted through the crisis. The editorial calendar for 2021 assumes the virus will continue to complicate life (with or without a vaccine), government operations and public programs as communities work to find nimble and robust approaches to moving forward. We'll harvest the lessons from the pandemic's initial spread with a view to surfacing solutions and strategies that will help future-proof where we live.
